EMBARGOED until 00:01 on 17 October 2018

Local Naturalist has made the Shortlist for the 2018 UK Awards for Biological Recording and Information Sharing

Bryony Chapman has been shortlisted in the “David Robertson Adult Award for recording marine and coastal wildlife” category of the 2018 UK Awards for Biological Recording and Information Sharing, for her work at Kent Wildlife Trust based in Maidstone, Kent.

These annual awards started in 2015, and have been developed by the National Biodiversity Network, the National Forum for Biological Recording and the Biological Records Centre. Their intention is to recognise and celebrate the outstanding contributions made to biological recording by adults and young people, which is helping to improve our understanding of the UK’s wildlife.

Bryony Chapman says:

“I’ve always cared passionately about wildlife, and it’s particularly true in the marine environment that we need to know more about what lives where, so that we can protect it.

“I am incredibly lucky to have had a job at Kent Wildlife Trust that involved working with amazing teams of volunteers surveying marine life on the shore and on dives around Kent’s wonderful coastline.

“The pleasure of experiencing the marine world and doing something to help safeguard its wildlife while in the company of such dedicated and enthusiastic people is hard to beat, and I continue recording with them as a volunteer, while now working on marine conservation policy.”

The winners of the 2018 UK Awards for Biological Recording and Information Sharing will be given their prizes at a special ceremony on Wednesday 21 November during the National Biodiversity Network's annual conference in Nottingham.

2. David Robertson (1806–1896) was a Scottish naturalist who founded the University Marine Biological Station at Millport, which opened in 1897. Millport Marine Biological Station closed in 2013, but reopened in 2014 as Millport Field Centre thanks to the Field Studies Council.
 3. Gilbert White (1720 – 1793) is remembered in these awards because his name is synonymous with biological recording. He was one of the first English naturalists to make careful observations of his surroundings and record these observations in a systematic way. He transformed the way we look at the natural world and is recognised as one of the fathers of ecology.
 4. Lynne Farrell is a well-respected botanical tour, expedition and field meetings leader. She co-authored the first 'British Red Data Book on Vascular Plants' and has produced and illustrated a pocket book 'Wildflower walks on Mull'. Since 1995 Lynne has been the Botanical Society of Britain and Ireland's voluntary recorder for Mull, Coll and Tiree and is working on writing a new 'Flora of Mull and the Mid Ebudes'.
