Get Involved

Saving Scotland's Red Squirrels is working with local communities to ensure red squirrels will always be a part of Scotland's special native wildlife. Together with partners, landowners and a network of local groups and volunteers, we are focused on the areas where red squirrels are most under threat from the spread of the invasive grey squirrel.

Our efforts are making a difference — in many places, red squirrels are already making a comeback. However, there is still a lot of work to do. With your help, we can continue to protect them.

Welcome to the Grey Squirrel Control Group

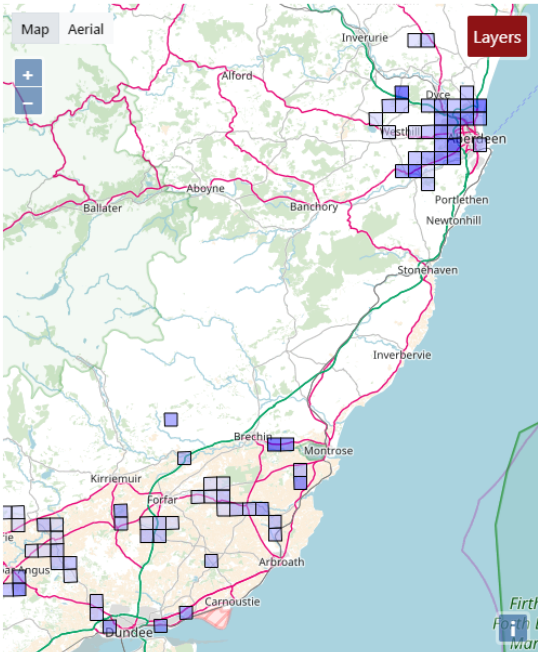

Saving Scotland's red squirrels requires a community-led, landscape scale approach to grey squirrel control in our target project areas.

This group includes volunteers involved in all aspects of grey squirrel control, from trap hosting to on-call dispatchers. Visit the documents page to access useful volunteer resources.
